FALLEN BANKER SCORNS PARENTS

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—What do the matter with you, anyway? What do you think you are trying to do? asked Joseph G. Robin, the fallen banker, today, of the gray-headed couple, who say they are his parents.

Annoyed, ill at ease, by turns smiling and scowling, he refused to have anything to do with them, or even to admit that his parents were in this country. In his denials, his sister, Dr. Louise Robinovitch, who has been constantly beside him, took a similar firm stand.

In Brooklyn, a newspaper reporter found a humiliated pair, named Robinovitch, who thought Robin might be their son.

Detectives brought them to the criminal courts buildings today, questioned them about their family history and then arranged to have them meet Robin.

"No," said he, "I don't want to see them, and nobody can make me. They are nothing to me." So it was necessary to lead him to the district attorney's office, with assurances that he need answer only a few questions. Once there, Mr. and Mrs. Robinovitch were brought into the room. The woman had the quicker eyes.

"My son, my son," she cried half in Yiddish, half in English. "This is my son," and made as if to embrace him. Robinovitch turned and his shoulder. "Ask him if he is not my son," she protested to the district attorney. It was then that Robinovitch, with his abrupt manner, said to her: "You are the woman who said she had a son."

Until they were brought face to face neither of the two pairs knew that the other was in the building. Robinovitch's answers to questions gave the same birthplace and the same names of sisters and brothers, with one exception, as those given by Mr. and Mrs. Herman Robinovitch.

A mental examination of the prisoner was concluded today by alienists for the state, but the finding was withheld.
